Woman's Touch

```
D                              G          D
Maybe my heart needs a woman's touch
G                    D           A
Someone who believes all I am is enough
D                              G            D
Someone to smooth all the rough edges off
     G            D                A         D
Oh maybe my heart needs a woman's touch

        G                    F#m
1.      I got this hunger I got the need
                  A
        For somebody to hold me
                D
        Who'll cry when I bleed
        G                            F#m
        Someone to whisper the words that can heal
              A                          A7
        Somebody who's open somebody who's real

        G                              F#m
2.      I've been out hiding, been closing the door
              A                        D
        Been turning my back on what went before
        G                       F#m
        I need an angel my faith to restore
              A                          A7
        Somebody who's faithful somebody who's sure
```

Words & Music – Brian Houston

© Brian Houston 2005